WAR RISK INSURANCE ACT ALLOWANCES TO EXPIRE ON APR. 31

PLANE IS WRECKED IN FATAL FALL ON LOUISIANA FARM

GOVERNMENT SHIPS TIED UP IN MANY PORTS; NO BUSINESS

BISHOP CURLEY, ST. AUGUSTINE, MAY BE CARDINAL

Form Is Run on Slavery Plan, Alleged

The search for the missing balloonists from Pensacola continues today. The Coast Guard cutter, the USS Albatross, is still out in the Gulf of Mexico, looking for the two men who disappeared on a balloon trip last week. The search is being hampered by bad weather and the fact that the balloons were last seen on Sunday night.

The National Editors' Association has announced that it will not publish any more editorials for the week-end. The association says that it is doing this because of the "unpleasant and unproductive" atmosphere created by the current events.

The war risk insurance act allowances to expire on April 31. The act provides for a 50 percent increase in the allowances for war risk insurance. This increase will be in effect until the end of the year.

The plane was wrecked in a fatal fall on a Louisiana farm. The pilot, a former aviator, was killed in the crash. The plane was flying over the farm when it lost control and crashed into a field.

The government ships tied up in many ports, with no business. The ships are being held up by the government, which is trying to control the shipping industry. This has caused a great deal of trouble for the shipping companies.

Bishop Curley, of St. Augustine, may be cardinal. The Vatican has announced that it is considering the possibility of making Bishop Curley a cardinal. This would be a great honor for him.

The form is run on slavery plan, alleged. The form is a document that is used by the government to control the shipping industry. It is alleged that the form is being used to run a slavery plan.

Germany Fighting for Time Hoping Escape Punishment

for response which this agile Weichmann seized skillfully. Instead of dividing British public opinion, therefore, the Germans once more, as so often in the war, deprived those most kindly inclined toward them, of a single leg to stand on. Lloyd George found himself in just such a position as Mr. Wilson, when, in 1917, the Germans suddenly declared their unbridled submarine warfare, thus giving lie to all their previous pledges and all of Mr. Wilson's early assertions.

"It is not," said Mr. Simonds, "an exaggeration to say that in the last analysis it is to the United States that Germany looks for that decisive aid which shall enable them to escape from the consequences of defeat and the cost of their crimes. Saving the unmistakable Anglo-American rivalry of the hour, watching all the various incidents which have arisen in the recent past, Germany hopes by clever propaganda, by constant appeals to American self interest, to American credulity, to the Anglophobia in certain quarters, to bring her step by step to the point where America will intervene in Europe on behalf of Germany."

"It is essential for Americans," said Mr. Simonds, "to perceive that in any case we are only at the first stage of the campaign." At the moment there is discussion as to whether Germany shall pay up in 30 years or in 42 years, but in either case we must see that for decades Germany will still be seeking, striving, planning, maneuvering to escape payment. For 30 years, at the least, we are to have these ever recurring crises; for 20 years Germany will remain outside the circle of nations. Even remotely content with their position during all this time, her policy will be concentrated on the effort to turn nation against nation, to stimulate international discord. * In a word, Germany means to make the collection of the debt expensive beyond all conception for her conquerors, while looking always for the propitious moment to throw off the yoke altogether. * It is not less patent that the end of all such German campaigns must some day be actual resumption of the old war, prosecution of that war to its logical conclusion, which must be the real defeat of Germany. It is not peace, but a form of warfare stretching indefinitely into the future which present German policy portends, and in the end such a policy can only lead to French action to a finish, with or without assistance. It may be that the Germans, preserving their appalling blunder, will bow once more, as they did at Versailles. * But in either case present submission will have only present value and the next time arrives that we shall look for new German defiance. * Of peace there is as yet but little promise, and will be until Germany at last accepts the recent defeat or invites and suffers another."

Planned Attack on New York.
We can get some little idea in this country of what the war might have meant in reading the story in the March issue of the Geographic Magazine, which describes one airship that was being built by the Germans for the express purpose of attacking New York. This ship had a fuel capacity of about 17,000 miles and was designed to be able to maintain itself at a height of 30,000 feet, with engines provided with oxygen, and the engines arranged to be kept warm at this height, which it was then impossible for air planes to reach. Had this ship appeared over New York and bombarded that city, there would have been absolutely no defense against her whatever and this ship could have come down to any height desired. The French now have this airship and are allowing their engineers to obtain all the technical data from it with a view to building new ones.

The Geographic Magazine very properly adds: "When a nation or organization has developed airships of this kind and work for years on them it is a very difficult matter for any other organization to catch up with them and be able to construct as good ones for many years." Had this airship reached New York and dropped its bombs and its deadly gases over that city we should have had one of the most terrific tragedies ever known so appalling that the mind is staggered in the contemplation thereof. But it was this deadly scheme of attacking New York with its millions of people, murdering women and children by the thousands which Germany was planning when the war ended. We must face the reality that the nation which brought on the war, which organized such hell-born schemes of destruction, which could in cold blood sink the Lusitania and send hundreds of innocent women and children to feed the sharks beneath the ocean waves, will for generations to come be struggling and striving to regain its military power in order once more to seek, in the air and on the water and under the water and on the battlefield world supremacy. That is the nation which we must watch. It is the propaganda of that nation which is filling American papers with criticism of England and France, which is sowing the seeds of discord and hatred among the nations of the world, and its power to do this work is intensified because we failed to go "on to Berlin," and in a visionary effort to save Germany from adequate punishment and to create a League of Nations, we have enormously increased Germany's power in the years to come to attack all of Europe and America. Moreover, there are possibilities inconceivably great in alliances which Germany may yet make, perhaps with Russia or with Japan, or perhaps with both, in its effort to conquer the world and revenge itself for its temporary defeat.

ST. PETE PLANNING BIG PUBLICITY CAMPAIGN SOON

(The Associated Press.)
ST. PETERSBURG, March 24.—St. Petersburg boosters plan to expend approximately $50,000 next year for publicity and entertainment and a movement is under way here to raise the fund by direct taxation instead of the usual "drives," which depend upon the generosity of the citizens of the city. With this end in view a joint meeting of representatives of the Chamber of Commerce, Rotary club and city commission resulted in a decision to suggest a tax levy of three mills and it is proposed to ask the legislature to authorize a change in the city charter whereby the position of director of publicity may be created, the officer to be a regular official of the city government.

FALLS TEN STORIES BUT ONLY BRUISED

CHICAGO, Mar. 25.—Chris Ahern, 64-year-old watchman in the Merchants' Loan and Trust company building, is back at work today after a recent fall of ten stories in an elevator. The accident occurred when part of the elevator support collapsed. Ahern was taken to the Cook County hospital unconscious and supposedly dying. Only slight bruises were found, however.

STATE BOARD HEALTH SAYS "SWAT MOSQUITO BEFORE IT SWATS YOU"

"Swat the Anopheles mosquito before she swats you," is the timely warning being spread broadcast over Florida by the state board of health, who, in a statement to the public generally, earnestly advises them that "the mildness of the past two winters will show more malaria prevalent than if the state had witnessed a cold snap or two, and that the only way to combat this evil is to hunt out the malarial mosquito on or near your private premises and put this wanton destroyer of health hors de combat by either spreading oil on the breeding place, draining off stagnant water that has accumulated, stockpiling with minnows, and last but not least, flatten and bury all tin cans or other receptacles that may hold water."

"Of course the average citizen is not expected to know the genus Anopheles of the mosquito breed from any other of its kind, but once you have calmly watched the marauder alight and witness the acrobatic stunt of standing on her head while filling your blood with malaria, you can never mistake her method of attack again, but after viewing said stunt, it is too late to avoid contagion, so don't wait until chills and fever force you to remember the above warning."

"The common mosquito does not perform for the benefit of its victim, but its life is not very pleasing even though the after effects are not serious, so in order to be sure that the visitor is not one of the Anopheles breed, the suggestion of making it impossible for any kind of mosquito to live in your neighborhood by following the above rules is imperative."

The state board of health urges every citizen to see their family physician and be examined for latent malaria that might have been carried over from last summer, as no one knows they have this disease until it makes itself known by chills and fever and that "lazy" feeling.

Quinine being the only cure for malaria, Dr. Ralph N. Green, state health officer, urges those who know they have been exposed to the malaria

DICE ROLL "SNAKE EYES", CULPRIT SAYS

(International News Service.)
KANSAS CITY, Kan., Mar. 25.—They shoot craps down at police court nowadays for freedom. Charles Campbell, forty-three, arrested in a raid on a crap game, won a small fine because the "galloping dominoes" rolled "just right." "You're a crap shooter, aren't you?" asked Judge Herrod. "Oh, I'm not so good," replied Campbell. "Well, roll these bones for your fine," the court cried. Campbell rolled. The dice showed "snake eyes." An "ace" was face up on each. "Well, it's two you and one for me," said the court. "Your fine is $3," Campbell paid.

Mayor Kenney of Seabreeze Suggests Improvements for the Beautification of Town

Unless all signs fail, Mayor C. A. Kenney is setting his stakes to give Seabreeze a wise and economical administration of her public affairs. His official role appears to become him, and he is already giving considerable time and attention to the affairs of the town. When asked by a News representative how he found the town's financial condition, he said:

"We are in a very satisfactory shape. Our street improvements are well along. We have enough cash in our general fund for the current expenses and our improvement indebtedness is being nicely taken care of with the assessment certificates, so that we have nothing to worry about along those scores."

"What improvements are you hoping for during your administration?"

"First, I want to see the owners of vacant property kept in better shape and either improve it or offer it for sale at a reasonable price. I know of quite a little property that is finely located, that is allowed to lay and looks like wild land. This sort of neglect injures the sale and value of property all about it. There should be some way to induce lot owners to put their holdings in presentable shape. I know of one particular plot that is in a desirable location, but it looks as wild as it did before the town was laid out. It is owned by a non-resident and when a price has been asked on it the reply has invariably come: 'Not interested—it is not for sale.' Now the assessment on these lots are very low and the owner feels that so long as the taxes charged against them are very low he does not need to worry about their appearance or improvement. For one I shall favor increasing the assessment of all vacant property and lowering, if possible, the taxes on improved property. I am not one who believes people should be punished for improving their property with high taxation, but I do think that vacant property should be assessed at the value which the owner asks for it, and I think the assessment of vacant property should be high enough to discourage the owner from holding it at an exorbitant price. Very often I hear people complain of high prices here which they themselves are holding lots which they own and which should be beautified and improved, far above a reasonable market price. I am anxious to see a real community spirit prevail throughout our town so that every resident will so plan his improvements that they will insure, not alone to the individual benefit, but to the general welfare as well."

"In speaking further of the future of Seabreeze, Mayor Kenney said: 'There is no question as to her future. It is as certain as the rising of the morning sun. Right now a hundred thousand dollars' worth of improvements are being planned. The new homes that are being built are an ornament, and every new one seems to call for two or three more. Before the season is over Grandview avenue alone will have 50 new and modern homes, built for comfort and convenience as well as appearance. We have had a wonderful winter, and people who have spent the time with us have been delighted, and we can confidently depend upon many of them coming back. Nature has done so much for us here that people are not disappointed when they come. We have the climate and we have the beach, and they can be depended upon. Then we have the best kind of people coming to see us, so that those coming this way are always certain to find just what they are looking for. I have every reason to believe that the number of our winter residents will gradually and continually increase from year to year, and that it will be up to us to keep pace with the procession and get ready for them by all possible progress and improvement."

Miss Nellie Keys of Lincoln, Ill., is here and is located at 216 Grandview avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Oliphant of River Forest, Ill., are recent arrivals. They are registered at a local hotel.

Misses Antoinette Erwin and Mary Erwin of Peoria, Ill., are here and pleasantly located at 510 Halifax avenue, Seabreeze.

Mr. and Mrs. Chester N. Matthews of Evanston, Ill., are here and are nicely domiciled at 111 Wild Olive street, Seabreeze.

Mrs. Joel Pitcher, with her daughter, Miss Theodora Pitcher of Wayne, N. Y., are among those recently to arrive. They have a pleasant apartment at 229 Halifax avenue.

Mrs. Augusta Moran of Manhattan Beach, New York, has arrived to take a look at the most wonderful of all beaches. She is registered at a local hotel.

T. E. Blythe, the well known baseball umpire, who has spent the winter with his family at the Beach and who has been an active factor in promoting all sorts of local sports here for the amusement and education of the entire population, has been asked to umpire the game in Daytona on Monday between the locals of the Florida league and the Washingtons of the American league. Mr. Blythe will be one of the regular umpires in the Piedmont, N. C., league.

Dr. Ed. T. Devine Speaks Sunday on "Foreign Relations"

EDWARD T. DEVINE
Speaker-Guest at Closing No. of Forum at Auditorium on Sunday

Dr. Edward T. Devine, associate editor of the Survey, which is the recognized mouthpiece of nearly every national agency of reform is due to arrive Saturday and be the speaker at the Forum meeting Sunday afternoon.

Dr. Devine has had a wide and influential experience abroad during the war as special agent American embassy, Petrograd, in 1916, and chief of the Bureau of Refugees and Relief of the American Red Cross, Paris, 1917-18, and can speak first hand concerning the foreign problems that will face this administration.

His topic at the Sunday Forum will be "Our Foreign Relations."

America's responsibilities abroad do not originate in the Treaty of Versailles and do not fluctuate with the fortunes of the political parties. They arise from the very conditions which exist—at home, in the war devastated regions, and elsewhere. Upon the resources and steadfastness of the United States the future of civilization in large measure depends.

Our first obligation is to maintain unimpaired those institutions which condition our security and prosperity. We must put our house in order, by an active policy in health, education, industrial readjustment, political reorganization.

Our second obligation is to share the experiences through which mankind is passing, in such a way as to retain our self-respect and the good will of the nations. We cannot be isolated and we cannot be an over-ruling

Harry Horn Gives Opinion of Some Changes Needed

Attorney Harry A. Horn, who is one of the candidates for clerk and assessor at the municipal election on Saturday, says he has lived here 19 years, knows every foot of land in the town, that he has made a careful study of the valuation and if elected would make a proper assessment. In speaking of his relations with the town in the past he said:

"I had to do with securing the new water works, the recent street improvements and I now heartily favor the election of councilmen, who will conduct the public work in a business like manner. During the past year I have pointed out errors in assessments that have lost the town at least a thousand dollars, and although the attention of those who were sitting as an equalization board were called to it and no attention was paid. Not a single error was corrected. On Main street alone there were mistakes amounting to five hundred dollars in the collection of the improvement tax."

"I am also in favor of the proposed bond issue, but not for the purpose of paying old debts and accrued interest thereon, because it would not be legal to so use money thus raised. I favor the bond issue so that the money may be used for needed improvements. I want to see many new improvements for the town and hope to live to see the place have all the comforts and conveniences its best friends hope for it. I am for a new pier, for a free bridge, for a fine board walk along our beach, for a still better water system, for more street lights, and eventually for a municipally owned electric light plant. In short, I stand for a progressive, yet strictly economical administration of the town's affairs. When a dollar of the people's money is expended I want to see a dollar's worth of value secured for it. I am also in favor of giving our winter visitors a hearty welcome and of doing what we can in reason for their comfort and contentment. In short, I want to see the things done that will surely make Daytona Beach grow and prosper according to her deserts."

providence; but we can clarify our views of foreign policy, we can have a keen and discriminating knowledge of what is going on in other nations, and we can deliberately decide what part we shall play in the society of nations. It will be one of active interest and impartial friendship.

This should be one of the most interesting addresses of the entire season and a great opportunity for Triple City folks to hear this great editor and author, hear his first hand stories of his experiences and discuss with him the responsibilities which we are asked to accept concerning the future relations with the rest of the world. A rare concert is being prepared to begin at 2:45 free to everyone. The program will be given in the Sunday Morning Daily News.

Miss Helen A. Tanner of Albion, N. Y., is a recent arrival at the Beach.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert A. Baell of Springfield, Mass., have arrived and are registered at a local hotel.

Charles Nolan of Cambridge, N. Y., arrived at the Beach Thursday morning and registered at the Dixie hotel. He expects to remain about a week.

Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Thurston of Alexandria, N. Y., are registered at a local Daytona Beach hotel.

"OUT OF THE SNOWS" TO BE SHOWN AT AUD. TONIGHT

Ralph Ince creator of American types for the screen, has added to the screen another remarkable characterization. In "Out of the Snows," a virile drama of the great snow waste, which is to be shown at the Auditorium tonight in connection with the concert of the Million Dollar Band, he appears as a member of the famous Northwest-mounted police.

"Out of the Snows" is the first of a series of National Pictures starring Ralph Ince and dealing with that wide diversification of life that is found on the North American continent. From the bandit-harried Mexican border to the frozen wastes of Hudson Bay live men and women whose romances and tragedies could furnish plots for a thousand entertaining photoplays. But around no other people has such a tint of glamour been thrown as the fur traders of the North, the Canadian Mounted Police, and the half breeds that live on the pine woods develop.

The story is introduced with a thread of mystery, a beautiful founding girl and a half breed woman of strange beauty. Into the lives of these two women comes a stalwart member of the mounted police. Outlaw fur traders, Indian runners and all the raffish of a frontier trading post furnish the background for one of the most thrilling melodramas the screen has ever seen.

Ralph Ince is supported by Zena Keefe and Gladys Coburn. The rest of the cast is excellent, and the snowy exteriors were secured in the Far North.

Phoning also takes place the final hours in a furious battle for supremacy while the time is ticking off previous records, candidates in The New York Times Solemnity Club Voting Campaign will tomorrow night wind up the most stupendous newspaper campaign ever before seen in these parts. The swell is coming! Like a mighty ocean wave that one may experience any day on our wonderful beach, that laughs at all obstacles, and sweeps everything before it, voting is assuming about unbelievable proportions. Even the wildest predictions as to the ultimate winners have been shattered by the avalanche of subscriptions that is descending upon the campaign office. Like waves of the charging regiment—on they come, never ceasing.

All previous records for subscriptions has been shattered. A new mark has been set, and the indications are that it will be broken tomorrow. There is every indication that the funds will be more than close. Just a few votes may separate the winners of the automobile from the other share gamblers. Who the prize winners are to be and just what their attainment will be, no one can tell. Several candidates from whom much has been expected have apparently faltered while others have forged to the front. Tomorrow more

THE CAMPAIGN ENDS AT EIGHT O'CLOCK TOMORROW NIGHT

READ THESE INSTRUCTIONS CAREFULLY

Following is a list of the club members that are still in the race for the prize automobiles and other valuable awards:

Miss Susie McFarland, Titusville, Fla.
Miss Guida Fugate, City.
Miss Ruby Holland, D. Beach.
Miss Thelma Alderman, City.
Miss Olive Hlasky, City.
Miss Lila Sims, City.
Mrs. Harold C. Rose, D. Beach.
Mrs. J. W. Hippard, D. Beach.
Miss Hazel Hankins, City.
Mrs. Harriett M. Graham, City.
Mrs. Marguerite Vann, City.
Mrs. A. H. Hewitt, City.
Mrs. Mabel Ellsworth, Ormond.

The end of the last week is drawing near. Only two short days remain before the greatest Salesmanship Club Campaign ever conducted in Daytona and vicinity will close, and the last week is finding all of the remaining club members hard at work trying to get their last few votes.

Hiding on the crest of this wave of enthusiasm are ambitious candidates from every section of the territory exerting vigorous efforts to capture the prizes that will be awarded in a few days hence. In both the city and the out-of-town section is gathering a storm of votes that will be answered upon the campaign office at the final moment.

The race is too close to bank upon any possibilities, and there are too many persons interested in every candidate to insure anyone else an easy victory. Over-confidence loses many battles. Relaxation at this stage of the game is suicidal to success. Determination to win, coupled with relentless activity in vote gathering, will make a winner out of any candidate. This eleventh-hour chance to make a whirlwind dash to the finish— a chance to get your share of the $3,500 worth of handsome prizes.

Present indications point to a hair-brained finish, and it is certain that the prizes will be won by the candidate that most deserves them. No candidate can appear certain of victory and there is abundant speculation as to the final outcome. This last week will count—make it count for you. It seems to be unanimous that the race that is characteristic of the campaign and the final few days will undoubtedly witness the most spirited battle that has ever taken place.

CLOSING RULES—IMPORTANT
Each club member is asked by the campaign manager to fully acquaint herself with the following rules. If there is any question about any part of them, call up at once so that we may make it clear to you. For after the campaign closes there will be no excuses allowed—you must get things correct.

1. The campaign will close right on the minute of 8:00 p. m. on Saturday night, March 26th.
2. All subscriptions must be in the ballot box by that time in order to be counted. Remember that it is 8:00 p. m. and not a few minutes after 8:00, for that would be too late.

3. In making your report to the ballot box, each club member must see that her report checks up evenly. She must carefully check over each subscription and see that the money to cover is in the envelope. DO NOT MAKE A MISTAKE.

4. In the envelope goes just two things, subscription stubs (the same as you have been turning in to the campaign office heretofore) and money to cover the subscriptions. Each club member before she comes to the office to drop her envelope into the box must check everything up and place it in the envelope and seal it, and then write her name on the outside, and some time before 8:00 o'clock she must drop this into the ballot box.

5. In checking up your report be very careful that you do not make a mistake, for subscriptions without the money to cover will not be counted and money without the subscriptions will not be counted. If you have made a mistake, there is no chance in the world of getting it corrected, for after the campaign closes no mistakes will be corrected. Make sure everything is right before the campaign closes.

6. Place NO CHECKS in the ballot box. Nothing but CASH MONEY will be counted by the judges. Remember, no checks—all cash money.

7. At the stroke of 8:00, the chairman of the judges' committee will announce the campaign officially closed and from then on it will be impossible to place another envelope into the box—get yours in before the close.

8. Remember that the report that you make Saturday night is just like the one that you have made previous to this time, the only difference is that you put it into an envelope rather than give it to the campaign manager.

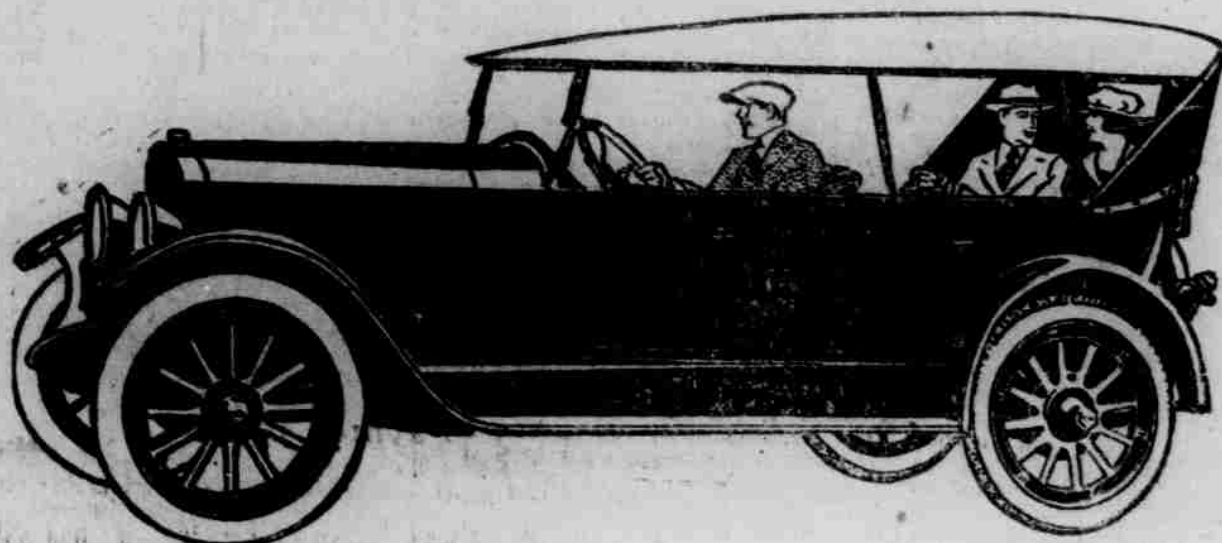

9. Don't forget the closing hour—8:00 p. m.—not a few minutes after, but before that time is the time to make your report. And be careful to check everything up correctly—for mistakes will not be corrected after the close.

Plunging along through the final hours in a furious battle for supremacy while the time is ticking off precious seconds, candidates in The News' $3,500 Salesmanship Club Voting Campaign will tomorrow night wind up the most stupendous newspaper campaign ever before seen in these parts. The swell is coming! Like a mighty ocean wave that one may experience any day on our wonderful beach, that laughs at all obstacles, and sweeps everything before it, voting is assuming almost unbelievable proportions. There is every indication that the finish will be more than close. Just a few votes may separate the winners of the automobiles from the other share gainers. Who the prize winners are to be and just what their allotment will be, no one can tell. Several candidates from whom much has been expected have apparently faltered while others have forged to the front. Tomorrow may win you a motor car!

See to it that you get all your votes in before the clock strikes eight tomorrow night. You may need every one.

Viviani Says France Is Ready to Face Obligations of Her Destiny in an Earnest Endeavor for Peace

By MILTON GRONNER
PARIS, Mar. 24.—Interviewing Rene Viviani, the former French premier, just before he boarded the Lorraine for America, is like talking to a reincarnation of the leopard whose skin lies on the floor of Viviani's magnificent library.

The great Frenchman paced up and down while uttering short, sharp "no's" to many questions.

"Do you think I am going to tell you in advance all I am going to say to President Harding? I don't make my speeches twice," he growled.

He paced up and down some more, then broke out:

"Here is the message I want to give to America through the Newspaper Enterprise Association:

"Some weeks ago the French government asked me to greet President Harding. Four years ago I had great honor with Marshal Joffre of going to greet your American democracy on the eve of its entry into the war for right which found our allies and ourselves united with America.

"It is quite natural that after election of your new president, I should like to pay one of my debt of gratitude by greeting through elected chief the country whose generosity and courage have been of such great help to us in time of distress.

"By going to offer my homage to President Harding and also by entering into contact with eminent American leaders, I have only one plan, one aim, one intention.

"It is to show France, as it is attached to peace, to justice, having before it one interest and that is to obtain satisfaction for wrongs made in her flesh and injuries done her economic life by unprovoked aggression.

"Relying on her right, France asks nothing but what is her due. Being hard at work today as yesterday she was earnestly at war, she is already in all her conscious pride to face obligations of her destiny."

Viviani said he expected to remain in America about three weeks. He has selected no place to visit outside of New York and Washington, but will probably go elsewhere after consulting Ambassador Jusserand.

He did allow me to ask one more question. It concerned the magnificent American silk flags which adorn the entrance to his political apartment.

My question brought the only smile to his face during the entire interview. He said the cherished flags were presented to him at Philadelphia in 1917.

It is generally recognized in Paris that Viviani's trip is for something more important than formal greetings.

France's pride will allow no public expression on the subject of her financial obligations to the United States, but Viviani will undoubtedly feel out President Harding, Senator Lodge and Secretary of the Treasury Mellon on the subject in private conversations.

In well-informed political circles here it is said that Viviani was in a savage temper over going away from France at the present time.

President Millerand and ex-President Poincaré are at sword points, but Viviani has been the bridge between them. It is generally understood he fixed up peace, whereby the next vacancy in the premiership was to go to Viviani again, with Poincaré minister of foreign affairs.

But Premier Briand not only carried parliament by his eloquence but

News' Famous Automobile Campaign Ends Promptly at 8 o'Clock Saturday Night

With the final hour 8:00 p. m. Saturday night emblazoned firmly on the minds of all, the candidates in the News' famous campaign are exacting thrilling scenes in their struggle for additional votes to help them to secure a place in the distribution of the $3,500.00 worth of prizes Saturday night. Swiftly drawing to a close the campaign is hourly growing in force and vigor, sending a mighty wave of enthusiasm out over the territory where we are operating. Candidates are fully aroused to the opportunity of winning one of the handsome cars. Every passerby is approached by the question, "Will you subscribe to the Daily News and help me win one of the prizes?" Every passing hour is installing new vigor and enthusiasm into the tireless workers.

All the territory is a vivid picture of mighty struggle tempered with enthusiasm bordering on frenzy. The outcome is unpenetrable. And as to the candidates, who will they be that will stand serene and ultimate at the summit of achievement on the pinnacle their ambition has placed them? No one can tell. Such a capacity as has already been displayed will undoubtedly measure up to this demand with superb adequacy, but nothing will atone for time that has passed unheeded; visions of the future will involve into realities of the present, but only for those who consider nothing too difficult to overcome. The road to victory may be strewn with barriers, but those who go steadily onward with the vim and determination will be the ones that will reap the harvest.

From today on ambition will reach its highest pitch, and the battle will be waged relentlessly until the hour of the clock point to the closing hour. Who will be the winners can only be told after the final ballots have been cast and the official judges read the names of those who have worked the hardest and won.

Overconfidence at this stage of the race will only lose what earnest effort has gained for you during the past weeks—don't underestimate the ability of your opponents, for they may have worked as hard as you and possibly have done as well. While no extra votes are to be given, each subscription counts so many votes, and although the amount is rather small in comparison with what has been offered they still count toward the winning of either of the cars—your best in these last few hours—make every minute count in your behalf—don't fall down now.

Tom McQueen Uses Unique Means for Advertising Flyer

There is no more familiar sight about the Triple Cities than the one shown in the accompanying picture, the rear of Tom McQueen's car, carrying his trade mark of the Dixie Flyer.

Tom, as one comes to know him after meeting him once, is the veteran of the passenger agents in Daytona, spending the greater part of each year for the convenience of tourists wishing to make reservations, month after month. The present is Tom's tenth season here in the interests of the Dixie Flyer, having made headquarters in previous years at the Hotel Deland, being master of ceremonies each year at the closing of the dining room of the big hotel. This year together with other passenger agents, he has maintained offices in the H. B. Schulte offices at 114 South Beach street, with a second office in the car, which brings Tom as much business, because of the accompanying sign on the rear, as does his regular office.

Tom expects to remain here until about the middle of April, finishing up reservations for the remaining tourists who have picked the Dixie Flyer for their return to northern homes. Then he will drive back to his headquarters at Knoxville, promising to carry all those with him who are unable to get reservations on the Dixie Flyer.

Tom's legion of friends in this vicinity will miss his smiling countenance and ever pleasant efforts to make life pleasant for the traveling public, but will look forward to seeing him when Tom, if he is alive and kicking, will again make Daytona his headquarters.

LUZADER-SIMON

The announcement, made today, of the wedding on Wednesday, March 16 at Deland, of Miss Edna Simon and Ben Luzader, both of Daytona Beach, came as a great surprise to their many friends, the couple having kept their secret well for more than a week.

The couple were accompanied to Deland Wednesday afternoon by Mrs. Harry Horn and Mrs. Horn's father, Mr. Wolfe, the party motoring to the county seat, the ring ceremony being performed by Dr. Nichols, son-in-law of Judge J. Lee McCrory, at the home of the judge.

As a prize in keeping the wedding a secret for a week, the happy couple were presented with a beautiful chest of silver by Mrs. Agner, a friend of the bride.

Mr. and Mrs. Luzader will make their home at 409 Earl street, Daytona Beach, after April 1, in the newly furnished bungalow which the groom had prepared.

Mr. Luzader is employed with L. Z. Burdick as carpenter-contractor, while the bride was with the Daytona News this season, until the time of her wedding.

The couple are receiving congratulations from their many friends at the happy conclusion of the romance of which their friends were unaware.

STEAMER TO OPERATE KEY WEST TO TAMPA

FORT MYERS, Mar. 24.—A 600-ton steamship and tugboat steamship will be in operation between Fort Myers and Tampa to call according to schedule received by L. A. Whitney, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, from an eastern navigation company. The vessel will accommodate approximately 100 passengers.

A cruiser boat carrying freight and passengers, scheduled completion here, is to be placed on a run between the two cities by early summer, it is stated.

The boat lines are expected to benefit in better, cheaper and more expeditious handling of freight shipments between the two terminals.

H. W. Spear of Greenfield, Mass., was one of the town's guests who witnessed the recent collision of the airplane and new Packard car on the beach some days ago. In speaking of the matter today Mr. Spear said: "Why would it not be a good idea to require airplanes to carry a horn similar to an automobile, so that they could give notice when they desire to land? That accident would not have occurred had the airplane blown a horn."

Roamer Limbers Up
for Speed Trials
First of the Week

One of the Roaming Roamers took to the sands of Daytona Beach this morning, just before noon. The machine, the Dusenbury four-cylinder, electric, 100-horsepower motor, was driven by the Roamer people, who will drive in the world speed record trials, arrived in this city several days ago, and the machines have been under constant care of the mechanics since.

The cars, one entirely stock, body chassis, engine and all the other parts and the one equipped with a special racing body, quite similar in appearance to Mulford's Paige, will be put on the sands in an attempt to smash the 100 miles an hour record. Established by the blue and white Paige several months ago.

The cars with a corps of experts and L. D. Goodspeed, designer for the Roamer people, who will drive in the world speed record trials, arrived in this city several days ago, and the machines have been under constant care of the mechanics since.

Friday morning was the first advent of the special racer on the sands and, although the throttle wasn't opened entirely on account of the desire of the mechanics to limber her up before pushing it over the 100 mile an hour speed, the rate at which the machine roared down the beach caused the Roamer people to take notice and extend their dust.

Goodspeed, who will be at the helm of the Roamer that breaks the world's stock car record, is not a professional racing driver. On the other hand, he is an amateur, having never entered in any of the larger speedway classics.

It is the intention of the Roamer people to place their machines on the course, under the care of a purely amateur driver, and show the world that the Roamer can walk away with the title laurels without being piloted by a seasoned racer.

The engines used in both of the cars is the Dusenbury four-cylinder, 100-horsepower motor. These engines, owing to their long stroke, and high compression, develop an amazing amount of power and speed, and are perfectly capable of carrying the Roamer cars over the sands at a breath taking speed.

The Roamer people claim that any stock car from their plants, equipped with the Dusenbury engine will develop 50 miles an hour.

With weather conditions favoring, and with the motors turning over in perfect style, Mr. Goodspeed will be on the beach for several days, turning the machines up for the final attempt when A. A. officials will be here to catch his time.

Meeting for Men

It is proposed to hold these meetings for men and boys throughout the year and a group will be organized Sunday afternoon to put through a big program of meetings after the Community Forum closes for the season.

It is announced that this is the first of a number of meetings to be arranged by the Sunday Club of the Y. M. C. A. and a speaker of note will be presented at each.

On Sunday afternoon Prof. James Heaton has consented to render several vocal selections, and to lead the singing for the day.

All boys over ten years of age and men of the Triple Cities are especially invited to attend these meetings, and it is expected that they will prove very popular.

LIGHTNING HITS CAR,
PASSENGERS UNHURT

(International News Service.) CHICAGO, Mar. 25.—Lightning completely destroyed a Halstead street car during a recent storm, but the only injury to the thirty passengers was the nervous shock to several women who fainted.

The bolt followed a weird course, first striking a flagpole and shattering it then leaping to the trolley.

For a block it played along the ill-lit car. There was a report like a bomb explosion which was heard blocks away and the car began to burn.

RIDGEWOOD HOTEL

Frank Webber, who, for several years has been the assistant manager of the Ridgewood hotel, is thoroughly pleased with the season's business of that popular hostelry. To a News representative Mr. Webber said:

"The Ridgewood has had the best season of its history. Never before have we had such a busy month of January. Our house has been filled since the first of February. The season, of course, was a little late in getting started as we are usually full by the 25th of January. This delay was due to the mild winter in the North, and I am not expecting that the last days of the season will find as many tourists in the Triple Cities as other years have. This is because of the extreme warm weather in the southern resorts of the stage. In former years tourists have come from these resorts and stopped several days here en route to their northern homes. I imagine that this year many of them will not feel like unpacking trunks that they have packed in the heat of the more southern cities for a few days' stay here; then, too, Easter coming early makes some difference for there are always people who want to be home for that festival season."

Mr. Webber was asked what he thought Daytona most needed to make her up to the standard of what a Florida resort town should be, and said:

"The thing most needed by Daytona is good roads. One can easily note the conditions that prevail in the beach cities. Where there are good roads there is sure to be building of homes and a general prosperity. This, of course, will come, but people can hardly be expected to invest in 5 per cent bonds for road building when they can get so much better interest in almost any other way. People are bound to come to Florida. The cities are easy to access and most people have more money than formerly and this means more travel and Florida is sure to get her share of the patronage."

Mr. Webber was asked when the Ridgewood would close for the season and said that he hoped to keep the place open until the middle of April, and certainly until the 15th. That as long as there was a demand for the accommodations of the Ridgewood they would be ready to serve their patrons. He said the work had been very pleasant during the winter; that they had at all times had a very fine class of people in the house and that it was a pleasure to serve them. Col. E. P. Woodbury was host at a very delightful dinner and smoker Wednesday evening in compliment to the men who are his guests at the Ridgewood. The dinner was served in the private dining room and was followed by a session of social fellowship in which all contributed to the good time.

A distinguished guest at the Ridgewood this week is Adam Engel, accompanied by Mrs. Engel and her sister, Mrs. A. P. Dierest, all of New York. Mr. Engel is one of the best known restaurant men in the country. For more than thirty years he has conducted the famous Engel Chop house at 36th street and Sixth avenue, New York. The party is much pleased with the Ridgewood and with Daytona and are delighted with the lovely spring climate here.

Another distinguished guest at the Ridgewood this week is G. A. Farnham of Saratoga Springs, N. Y. He is accompanied by Mrs. Farnham and their children. Mr. Farnham is the proprietor of the American House at Saratoga Springs, a place that has long been known to the tourists of the country.

Guests continue to arrive at the Ridgewood in large numbers, and the following are among the recent arrivals: Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Merriman of New York and Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Merriman of Wheeling, W. Va.; C. Brown and H. Appleby of Elizabeth, N. J.; E. Buzzard of Syracuse, N. Y.; T. Stamm, Elizabeth, N. J.; Mr. and Mrs. N. W. Pelton, C. W. Truesdell and H. A. Truesdell of Connecticut; W. L. HOTEL DESPLAND

Mrs. E. N. Hunting, who has been a guest at the Despland for two months, will leave on April 1st, going to Washington, D. C., where she will spend several days before returning to her home in Pittsburgh, Pa. Her husband, E. N. Hunting, is a member of the firm of Hunting-Davis company, a well known engineering concern of the country. Mr. Hunting also spent the earlier part of the season at the Despland. Mrs. Hunting says that she has enjoyed a very pleasant winter in Daytona. She has certainly made many friends by her pleasant and gracious manner. During the winter she has been the soloist at St. Mary's Episcopal church, and the ladies of the Palmist club and their friends had the pleasure of hearing her sing at their last morning musical when she sang three groups of songs. The first one consisted of "The Star," by Rogers; "Indian Love Song," and "The Spirit Flower of Tipton."

The second group of "Angels Ever Bright and Fair," by Handel; "Ashes of Roses," by Woodman.

The third of "The Winds of the South," by Scott; "Danny Boy," by Wetherby, and "Daffodils," by Wood. She was accompanied on the piano by M. P. Cornwall of Daytona. Each group of songs were heartily enjoyed and Mrs. Hunting responded with the catchy songs that always delights an audience.

Mrs. Hunting has already made her arrangements to return to the Triple Ancient Ruling House.

The Rajput house of Chander has ruled their little Indian monarchate state for more than 1400 years of unbroken descent. Long before the dawn of modern English history, before the Mussulman invasion, through all the changing scenes and dynasties of northern India, this Rajput state has upheld its independence under the same Rajput family. The Raja Bhuri Singh has just died. When royalty was thrust upon him 15 years ago by his brother's abdication, he accepted his honors under protest with modesty and dignity and with the fullest sense of responsibility has ruled his state to the interest of his people.

Seven Edwards, Kings of England. Seven English kings have borne the name Edward. The first three belonged to the Plantagenet family; the fourth belonged to the house of York, and so did the fifth, the boy murdered in the Tower by his uncle, Richard III; the sixth was a Tudor, and the seventh was Edward VII.

"Many a Mickle." If every home we have 20,000,000 of them—should waste on the average one-half cup of milk daily it would mean a waste of 2,500,000 quarts daily—912,500,000 quarts a year—the total product of more than 400,000 cows.

Big Development Being Made in Belleview Avenue Section by A. Stiger and L. S. Brown

In the erection of two modern, three room house for two couples to live in comfort and have plenty of space and labor saving, up-to-the-minute bungalows, commodious yet small and very home like in appearance and the development of natural beauties of their tract of land on Belleview avenue, between Ridgewood and Palmetto avenue, L. S. Brown and Albert Stiger, prominent business men of Springfield, Mass., and Daytona, have created a new field in the real estate world.

This new field, in which Mr. Brown and Mr. Stiger are very well fitted, is the erection in this city of the very best bungalows to be found in the state, to be used by the wealthier class, yet small enough and compact enough to be completely governed by the mistress of the house, who knows the first fundamentals of housekeeping.

The first two bungalows, very attractive in appearance from the outside, and surprisingly full of labor saving devices in the interior, elaborately constructed of the best materials, are the first stepping stones toward the development of an entire tract in the Belleview section.

One of the two attractive little bungalows erected in a plot shaded by stately live oaks and magnolia trees, consists of three rooms, so constructed as to give the same accommodations as a six-room house.

The parlor or reception room is a very neat and attractive one, lined with ceiling board of beautiful southern pine, and doors of the same material, varnished in a manner to fully bring out the wonderful grain designs of the southern pine wood. Coming into the room from the small front porch one is charmed by the pleasant home-like appearance, and the large stone fireplace, adding a more cozy color to the room.

To the right the reception room, entered into through two large doors, is another room, spacious and well furnished, to be used as a dining room.

In the rear, to the right, with entrances from both front rooms, thru a hallway, is one of the most modern kitchens well equipped with labor saving devices.

A buffet breakfast table has been placed in this room to be used by those not wishing to use the larger dining room or for impromptu meals.

The seats to this neat little table, with room for four places to be set, have been utilized for storage space.

To the left of the table is the sink, with a special compartment under the dish draining boards to be used for washing those post fragile articles of a woman's wardrobe, not entrusted to the laundry.

On the other side of the room is a very compact cabinet, with room for dishes, pans, pots and other kitchen utensils. A small but spacious refrigerator has been placed just under this cabinet. Both the cabinet and refrigerator have compartments opening through the wall, built in style, so that ice or groceries can be delivered without the entrance into the house of the delivery man.

An instantaneous water heater has been placed in the kitchenette serving both the sink and bath room with hot water at all times.

A small hall connects the kitchen and two front rooms and the bath room.

The bath room, is one of the most modernly equipped possible. The tubs are built in so as to eliminate any dust settling under them, causing undue labor, and effecting a more neat appearance, while medicine closets with large mirrors have been provided.

These are all of the rooms. One being shown through the bungalow wonders what is to be done at night when old King Morpheus calls his children to his arms.

When this question was asked of Mr. Brown, he smiled in his knowing way, walked back into the parlor, opened a large door and with the aid of his little finger swung a double collapsible bed from a closet dressing room and it came into position near the windows of the parlor.

The closest, hugging the bed out of sight in the day time, when put into use, with the bed in position at night proves to be a spacey little dressing room and wardrobe.

This same effect prevails in the dining room, which could also be used as a parlor, thus providing space in a

For trunks and other things to be stored away. Mr. Brown has designed the attic as a store room, with windows furnishing plenty of ventilation in the summer.

However, no stairs are visible. With the slight pulling of a small chain in the hallway, a sliding step rolls from its position in the ceiling, connecting the ground floor with the attic.

Drawers and closets are provided in a most unique built-in style, hardly conspicuous, giving plenty of storage space.

The two bungalows are the latest thing in space saving design, and are constructed with a stone formation, giving a very pleasing and stable appearance.

This is the first of a series of such bungalows to be erected by the two men, both making their first venture into this field, and it is expected that the southern portion of the city will boom under their plans.

Mr. Brown is an ardent admirer of nature and wherever possible, does not allow the destruction of a single tree. Through his love for things that are real, he secures a very natural beauty in the erection of his homes, giving them a more personal and home like grace.

He emphasized the neglect of tree preservation in this city, saying that the stately trees here are this section's greatest asset, and expressed the hope that all builders in the future would spare every tree possible when clearing their lots for the erection of homes.

Mr. Brown is an ardent admirer of the Triple Cities, Daytona especially and believes great things will be accomplished here, and that Daytona will be the greatest winter resort in the world within a few years.

He has been coming to this city for several years but only recently took an interest enough in local affairs and development to invest heavily.

Mr. Brown states that Daytona at present excels Miami as a winter resort, and that home-like spirit and atmosphere of this city was thousands of tourists, and that these will not only come here each winter, but will evidently erect their homes here.

It is for this class of people that he is erecting his modern little bungalows, and will erect another building of artistic taste and convenience furniture of home lovers and convenience fishing, combining his home loving instinct with a thorough knowledge of landscape artistry and of arrangement.

Although this is his first venture into the real estate field, at first steps show that he is a booster and is working along stable and progressive ideas that will grasp the attention of home lovers and prove a big boost to the community by providing a large number of beautiful and expensive homes to bring northerners here.

"John Chinaman." As far as can be learned, the earliest use of the nickname John Chinaman as a designation for celestials is in "a letter to the committee of management of Drury Lane theater," published in London just 100 years ago.

MRS. CLARK'S PLEA

IT INFLUENCES HARDING TO ACT IN DEBS' CASE

(Newspaper Enterprise Association)

WASHINGTON, March 24.—Attorney General Daugherty is giving all possible time to a consideration of the facts in the Debs case with a view of determining whether the Socialist chief's sentence in the federal penitentiary at Atlanta shall be cut short by executive clemency.

The attorney general insists that an American's devotion to his country be without question.

President Harding's attention was called to the Debs case in a dramatic manner.

He reached Washington the day following the death of former Speaker Champ Clark. He and Mrs. Harding motored to Mrs. Clark's apartment to express their sympathy.

During the conversation Mrs. Clark called his attention to the Debs case and urged that the incoming executive
